

EPP variation occurs across biological levels

Deviation is measured from the global mean, species mean, or population mean depending on level.

